CORK PARK RACES,

CLAY PIPES FOR THE DUBLINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IBISH TIMES.

Sir.—Hiving had the handling of all presents sent to the battali in from the citizens of Dublin, I have often wondered why nobody has sent out clay pipes to the men—I mean the real short clay pipes sent out, and if the people of Dublin only knew how the men like smoking them, and the envious look that comes into the eyes of the men when they see one of their comrades carefully unwrapping the nice little white pipes that their people have sent out to them, I am sure that they would see that the "bhoys" had plenty of them.

The "bhoys" had plenty of them.

The "bhoys" have done remarkably well in this war, and although they have not been the cause of glaring headlines appearing in the papers, nevertheless, the people know all about what they have done, and, perhaps, we will get a corner in one of the papers some day. We very seldom see an Irish paper out here.—

Yours, etc.,

DEMAND FOR INCREASE OF OLD

At the National Old Age Pennions Conference in Newcastle on Saturday Sir Thomas Oliver said no one would maintain that with the present high prices that the old age pension was sufficient to secure even the meanest necessities of life. The Act should be reconsidered, and the scale of pensions revised. A telegram was read from Mr. Arthur Hendersou, M.P., Paymaster-General, stating that cases of new claims for pensions involved certain sterner difficulties, which made it impossible to apply the administrative procedure by the Prime Minister. With regard to existing pensioners, he was bringing the whole question again before the Government, and would be glad to receive the resolutions of the Conference.

A resolution was carried urging the Government to take steps to arrange supplementary grants from the Treasury or to give powers to local authorities to supplement the State pension to sick, helpless, or feeble, or other claimants for pensions for whem the concessions made since the commencement of the war has no value.

The joint British and French attack north of the Somme on Friday had highly satisfactory, and even brilliant, results, says The Times, which were only fully recounted in the bulletin issued late on Saturday night. The attack was wridently by far the biggest which has been islivered of late, and, though there is little in delivered of late, and, though there is little in the German version which is in the smallest degree trustworthy, we may at least accept the enemy's assurance of the magnitude of the on- alaught. The gains were amply commensurate with the efforts made. The British attacked on a front of eleven miles, and Sir Douglas Haig, who has been noticeably chary of magnifying the achievements of his troops, allows himself to declare on this occasion that the results were "most successful." Seven lives are reported to have been lost in a boating accident at the mouth of the River Lune, ten miles from Lancaster, yester-

Those drowned include two prothers, a son or one of them, three brothers-in-law, and a friend.

The disaster occurred in Morecambe Bay at the estuary of the River Lune. It appears that a party of Lancastrians, nearly all related, had arranged for a day's fishing by lines from a sailing boat named The Pearl. The party left Lancaster quay about seven this morning, and had an enjoyable sail down the river to Glasson Dock. a favourite place for Sunday boating had an enjoyable sail down the river to Glasson Dock, a favourite place for Sunday boating and fishing. After lunch they began to tack to come home with the tide, when a sudden squall capsised the boat, throwing its occupants into the hay. The water was choppy, and the men tried to cling to the side of the boat. One of the party, Mr. R. K. Wright, who is a well-known awimning club official, and only took part in the management of a life-saving champicuship on Saturday, succeeded in getting assistance from a fisherman, but by the time the boat had reached the scene of the disaster there were no signs of the ill-fated boat, and at the time of telegraphing hopes of saving any of the other seven men were exceedingly slight. Their names are—Police Constable Joseph Young, James Latham, International Northern Union footballer; John Wilson, his son William, James Wilson, brother of John Wilson; William Gresedale, and Ashworth Pinder.

SUNDAY, 10.47 P.M.

About noon to-day the enemy delivered a strong attack on the new line which we have established for a half a mile from the western corner of High Wood. He succeeded in reaching this line at certain points, but was driven out again by our infantry, who immediately reoccupied the trench.

Subsequent hostile attacks broke down under our artillery fire.

North of Bazentin le Petit we have to-day gained a further portion of the enemy's trenches.

The enemy has heavily shelled different positions of our front, more especially High Wood, Hamel, and Mailly. Elsewhere nothing of importance to report. In spite of low clouds, our aircraft did very useful work yesterday in communicating with our advanced infantry. One of our acroplanes, coming down to a low height, opened machine gun fire very effectively on the enemy's infantry in their front line trenches and also on hostile reinforcements coming up communication trenches.

PARIS, SUNDAY.

King George has telegraphed his best wishes to President Poincaré on the occasion of the President's birthday to-day. His Majesty adds: "It gave me great pleasure to meet you last week, and to note that our views are in perfect harmony. I am confident that our valiant troops co-operating on the field of battle will assure the success of our common cause."

President Poincaré replied thanking His Majesty for his message, and adding:—"I have preserved the happiest recollection of our late meeting, and I am keenly delighted at the intimate agreement existing between our two countries and Armies. This mutual confidence and close co-operation are sure pledges of victory."

The Secretary of the War Office issued the following on Saturday:

Early in the present month Turkish irregulars had endeavoused to interfere with our reconnottring steamers on the Euphrates, especially in the vicinity of the village of Ain and Khidr.

On the 15th inst. a successful raid on these marauders was undertaken by our forces and a contingent of friendly tribesmen, supported by two gunboats.

About 60 of the enemy were killed, and a considerable number wounded. Our total casualties were killed, and one wounded.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY ALLIED AIRMEN.

Official regulations have been made which provide powers to prevent the withholding of goods from the market to the prejudice of national interests, and to prevent any stock of goods being held in excess of requirements. The intended effect of the regulations is, of course, to thwart attempts to make large or small "corners" in goods, particularly food. A business man in Dublin, who is in a good position to speak upon the matter, expressed the opinion that the new regulations would not have much direct application to Ireland, for a great quantity of household goods come to Ireland through the London and Liverpool markets. Anything affecting the wholesale markets in England would, of course, make its effect felt in this country. As far as Irish producers or merchants were concerned he knew of no instances to suggest that supplies were being held back. The present difficulty of obtaining supplies from England had indeed reduced the margin in reserve.

HOES are so scarce and the clamour for Lotes and Delta is so great that for every four pairs wanted only one pair can be supplied.

So, early in July, the factory was obliged to adopt a plan for sharing its output fairly amongst its agencies.

And, since the supply of civilian shoes is limited, in fact, reduced, owing to the loss of men leaving for military service and to the manufacture of Russian army boots, the supply to agencies is limited also, and can be delivered only on fixed

In these circumstances, purchasers are urged to take such Lotus and Delta as they may find in the shops and not to ask fo special pairs to be ordered from the factor

A SAILOR AND MILITARY POLICE. The arrest of a sailor gave rise to much violence on Saturday afternoon in Dame street, Dublin. Apprehended by three military foot policemen, he resisted them strenuously. A large crowd gathered, and one member intervened in the struggle. Other police having come up the sailor was brought along towards the Castle. Then a Royal Irish Fusilier interfered with the military police, and came to blows with them. The excitement became so great that one of the latter threatened to draw his revolver. In the end, the sailor, the a soldier, and a woman who had been arrested as well, were brought to the Castle. During the affray, which lasted a quarter of an hour, both the military police and those who opposed them, were bruised and cut.
